CHILDREN’S ONLINE PRIVACY PROTECTION

At Align, we do not intend to collect any information from children under the age of fourteen, unless the information is collected from a parent or guardian. While we cannot stop a child from accessing the website, we do not collect any personal information without making it clear that the person providing the information must be at least 14 years old. If you have questions about our website collecting information from children, please contact us at Privacy@aligntech.com.

WHAT DO WE DO WITH THE INFORMATION WE COLLECT?

The information gathered from your use of our websites or provided by you may be used:

- To provide you with information about products, services, news and events.
- To allow you to use, purchase, and/or download products and services.
- To gather demographic information about user trends, such as age, gender, and general income levels.
- To provide certified doctors with information on actual or prospective patients.
- To analyze use of our services and products, develop new services and products, and customize our products, services, and other information we make available.

We do use a robust combination of data sources (online, orders, customers, etc.) to get a full picture of our product and marketing efforts. This is only for our efforts and we do not share your information to other businesses for their own purposes.

We may also disclose personal information about you if we believe that doing so is legally required or is necessary to protect our property or other legal rights (including but not limited to enforcement of our agreements or the rights of property of others).

We partner with other businesses to assist us in our marketing, communications, and sales efforts, and may share information about you for these purposes. These partners are not allowed to use your information for any purpose other than doing business with Align.

In addition, information about our users, including personal information, may be disclosed as part of any merger, acquisition, debt financing, sale of company assets, or similar transaction, as well as in the event of insolvency, bankruptcy or receivership in which personal information could be transferred to third parties as one of our business assets.

COOKIES AND ADVERTISING

Our websites use cookies in order to improve your user experience by enabling that website to 'remember' you, either for the duration of your visit (using a 'session cookie') or for repeat visits (using a 'persistent cookie'). Cookies also help us know how our websites or marketing efforts are working, but these cookies generally do not collect any personal information about you. Although acceptance of cookies is not required to visit our websites, we do use cookies, most of which are necessary in order to use the website. Cookies are small text files stored on computer hard drives and are regularly used to analyze individual website activity. By collecting and remembering information about your visit to a website, cookies allow web applications to recognize and respond to your individual preferences. This enables us to determine the usefulness of information provided to our users and to analyze the effectiveness of our navigational structure in providing you that information. In the end, cookies help us provide you with a better website experience.

If you prefer not to receive cookies on this website, you can set your browser (such as Internet Explorer, Chrome, Mozilla Firefox, etc.) to warn you before accepting cookies and refuse the cookie when your browser alerts you to its presence. You can also refuse all cookies by turning them off in your browser. If you have set your browser to not allow cookies, you will still be able to access the website; however, this may affect your full usability of this website. You may also click here to manage cookies on this website.

We also use standard Internet technology, such as Internet tags (also known as web beacons, action tags, or GIFs) in combination with cookies and use these tags through an advertising company. These tags are placed on both online advertisements that bring users to our websites and on different pages within the site itself. We use this technology to measure visitors' responses to our website and the impact of our advertising campaigns (including how many times a page is opened and which information is viewed). This helps us measure how long it takes for someone who visits our website to become a customer, so we do compare information gathered from the website to actual customer data. This technology may not be present on the website you are currently visiting.

Our website uses Google Analytics. This is a web analytics service provided by Google, Inc. Google Analytics sets a cookie in order to evaluate use of those services and compile a report for us. If you prefer not to allow Google Analytics, please click here.
